7th Russian Petroleum and Gas Congress was held alongside the exhibition. RPGC is Russia's leading international forum, and attracts leading figures from the oil and gas industry. The Congress was attended by about 700 senior representatives of the domestic and international oil and gas industry; industrial ministries and departments; oil and gas associations; and financial institutions. Thirty countries were represented at the event.

The following topics were discussed at the Congress: Russia's Oil & Gas Industry and the Global Energy Market: New Challenges and New Opportunities; Russia – a Reliable Energy Supplier; Government Policy in the Geological Exploration of Land Subsoil and the Continental Shelf of Russia; International Strategic Alliances in the Development of Gas and Oil Fields; Russia's Gas Strategy; Business Strategies of Oil and Gas Companies during the Financial Crisis; Financial Support of Current Business Activities and Overcoming the Non-Payments Crisis; Preserving the Oil Service Sector; Technologies for Developing, Drilling, Producing and Increasing Recoverable Oil; and Key Oil and Gas Transportation Projects.

As usual, Gazprom was the partner for Gas Day and Rosneft for Oil Day.

This year, for the first time, the congress programme included special focus sessions: Russia's Oil & Gas Industry during a Period of Global Economic Changes: State Support, New Business Strategies, Investments (supported by the Ministry of Energy of the Russian Federation); and International Cooperation in the Caspian Basin Hydrocarbon Field Development.

Also included for the first time this year in the congress programme were technical sessions: Oil Field Services and Drilling. Technologies for Developing, Drilling, Producing and Increasing Recoverable Oil (supported by the Russian Society of Oil and Gas Engineers); Oil Refining and Petrochemicals in Russia: Opportunities and Goals (supported by VNIPI Oil); and Transportation of Oil and Oil Products.

Most of the participants had a very successful show and are already committing themselves for participating in MIOGE 2011. We also look forward to seeing you at the Russian Petroleum & Gas Congress next year (June, 2010), alongside Neftegaz 2010 exhibition in Moscow.
